SEND-IT TELEPHONE DIALLER

The Send-it telephone dialler offers those living alone the ability to summon assistance automatically when required. The dialler uses landline technology to ensure no lost connection and guaranteed message delivery.

Once triggered the unit first plays a loud tune for 30 seconds, which is intended to be heard anywhere in the house or garden so that false alarms may be cancelled. The unit then dials up to 8 numbers in turn delivering a voice message and waits for a response.

While dialling a different tune is played and only stops when a response (key press on the carers phone) is received from a carer. Thus the user has the reassurance that assistance is coming.

Installation could not be easier, simply plug in the unit alongside your standard phone, connect the power lead and protection begins.

BADGE-IT SENSOR

Home alone support is available with a range of monitoring sensors such as the Badge-it, a unique personal alarm badge to detect users falling, wandering or suffering panic attacks. Please ask for details.
